

Students,

The Department of Mathematics wanted to share changes that have been approved through the Board of Regents in Georgia as it pertains to MATH 1112 and 1113. These changes are in effect for Fall 2020 semester.

MATH 1112 will be gone starting FALL 2020.

Historically, students had a few routes through Precalculus content.

1. A student starts in MATH 1111 College Algebra and takes MATH 1112 Trigonometry. This equals the content taught in Precalculus
2. A student met the prerequisite requirement to begin in MATH 1112 Trigonometry as their HS scores/ALEKS placement suggested that they already had MATH 1111 content knowledge and could bypass it.
3. A student met the prerequisite to begin in MATH 1113 Precalculus. It is currently an expedited one-semester combination of the Precalculus content.

The new route through Precalculus will have students going through 2 potential ways through Precalculus content

1. Start in MATH 1111 College Algebra and then complete a restructured MATH 1113 Precalculus content course (restructured MATH 1113 course starting Fall 2020).
2. A student meets the prerequisite requirement to begin in MATH 1113 Precalculus as their HS scores/ALEKS placement suggested that they already had MATH 1111 content knowledge and could bypass it.

What does this mean for you?

If you are planning to take MATH 1112 to meet a math requirement or because you need to retake it due to previous grade, the ability to take or retake MATH 1112 will only exist through Summer 2020.

MATH 1112 can still be utilized as a prerequisite to MATH 1190 Calculus !!

Your academic advisors are aware of these potential changes to the initial math courses in the department. If you have questions, please email your academic advisor-

<https://advising.kennesaw.edu/who.php>

Q&A BELOW

Q: Do I have to take MATH 1112?

A: It depends on your major! Check DegreeWorks or reach out to your academic advisor if you're not sure.

Q: I'm currently in MATH 1111, can I go ahead and take MATH 1113 next?

A: The MATH 1113 course will have the new curriculum in place in Fall 2020. So, you would need to take MATH 1112 prior to Fall 2020 OR take the new MATH 1113. But, don't let this impact progression with your degree. Talk with your advisor, if you want to make a plan!

Q: What if I need to retake MATH 1112?

A: You will have through Summer 2020 to do so. Once the course goes away, you will no longer have access to registering for the course.

Q: What if MATH 1112 is a prereq/coreq for another class?

A: MATH 1112 will still be coded as a prereq to other courses, though MATH 1112 will no longer be taught. And typically, if MATH 1112 was an appropriate prereq/coreq, then MATH 1113 is usually appropriate too! Reach out to your academic advisor if you have any concerns! The advisors and departments have been notified of this change.

Have a question about MATH 1112 and not sure who to ask? Email csmadvising@kennesaw.edu and we will assist in you finding the answer!