

Molecular Biosciences Interest Group (MBIG) seminar series
Fall 2018

The Molecular Biosciences Interest Group (MBIG) seminar series will take place on Fridays at 1:00pm in the Clendenin building, room 1008 (CL 1008) on the Kennesaw Campus. All faculty, staff, students and Alumni are invited to attend.

Friday, January 25, 2019

Alyse Steves, Emory University

"Ubiquitous Halogenated Flame Retardant Toxicants Impair Spermatogenesis in a Human Stem Cell Model"

Friday, February 1, 2019

Steven Sloan, Emory University

Friday, February 8, 2019

Machelle Pardue, Emory/VA

"Detecting and Treating Early Stage Diabetic Retinopathy to Prevent Blindness"

Friday, February 15, 2019

Dan Morris, Research Associate Professor of Biology in the Department of Molecular and Cellular Biology at Kennesaw State University

Friday, February 22, 2019

Eric Ortlund, Emory/VA

Friday, March 1, 2019

Graeme Conn, Emory University

Friday, March 8, 2019

Neale Weizmann, Emory/VA

"Role of the immuno-skeletal interface in HIV- and antiretroviral therapy-associated bone loss."